

INDIVIDUALLY DESIGNED

INDIVIDUALLY DESIGNED MAJOR & MINOR

FOUR-YEAR CURRICULUM MINOR

THE INDIVIDUALLY DESIGNED PROGRAM

UW-Superior offers the Individually Designed major option and the Individually Designed minor option for students whose educational goals are not fully met by one of our existing majors or minors. Our Individually Designed program allows students to complete the degree they truly want.

To design a major or minor, a student works with a specially appointed advisory panel that includes his or her academic advisor and at least two other faculty members.

The University Credits Committee gives final approval to the plan. Students must meet certain requirements for grade point average and course credits completed before they can design a major or minor.

Students gain multi-dimensional knowledge by incorporating several different areas of study into one Individually Designed major or Individually Designed minor. Students can also make themselves more marketable to potential employers by having a broad base of skills and experience gained from incorporating several subjects into a major or a minor.

PROGRAM POSSIBILITIES

Examples of Individually Designed majors and minors that students have completed in the past include:

- Sports Administration
- Human Resources
- Public Relations
- Legal Administration
- Sustainable Science
- Social Administration
- Child Care Management
- Human Services
- Wellness Administration
- Human Health Services
- Information Literacy
- Sustainability
- Neuroscience
- Arts Advocacy
- Grant Writing
- Enterprise Management
