

PRE-HEALTH

NATURAL SCIENCE DEPARTMENT FOCUS

FOUR-YEAR CURRICULUM MAJOR

THE NATURAL SCIENCE DEPARTMENT

UW-Superior's Natural Sciences Department focuses on using scientific inquiry as a way of knowing and applying scientific knowledge to societal issues of local, regional and global importance.

Our instructors have diverse teaching and research experiences that give students research opportunities in the field and laboratory, and most instructors have earned doctorate degrees from world-renowned universities.

The department also works with local hospitals and health care facilities to provide student volunteer and internship opportunities. Such experiences not only enhance a student's understanding of science, but provide an opportunity for students to demonstrate and practice their maturity, responsibility, trustworthiness, intellectual curiosity and capability of leadership.

THE PRE-HEALTH FOCUS

The Pre-Health focus prepares students for careers in health care such as:

- Medicine
- Dentistry
- Pharmacy
- Veterinary Medicine

Students seeking a health profession focus are a diverse group with varied backgrounds and interests; however, all graduate schools with professional programs seek similar characteristics in their applicants. Students must be strong academically, with a demonstrated ability in science and math.

UW-Superior can lay the groundwork for health-professional students by providing rigorous coursework and a wide range of opportunities for student involvement.

DEGREE POSSIBILITIES

Students earning a degree with a Pre-Health focus typically further their education at graduate schools or programs in specialized areas of study. Those who are interested in going to work in the field after graduation can find various positions as:

- Health Service Managers
- Physician Assistants
- Biomedical Engineers
- Radiation Therapists
- Nurses
- Nutritionists
- Lab Technicians
- Physical Therapists
- Pharmacy Technicians
- Health Educators
