Dear Yellowjackets:

By now, I hope that you all have carefully read the email from Chancellor Renée Wachter sent on Wed., March 11, outlining our plans to extend spring break one week and transition all classes to an alternate delivery mode. It is important that you read this message and all others to follow in their entirety. Please continuously watch your email for updates throughout spring break.

Here are a few important points from that email:

- All classes, events and programming on our campus will be held as scheduled through tomorrow, March 13.

- Spring break is extended by one week, March 16-29. Face-to-face classes are now scheduled to resume in an alternate delivery mode beginning Monday, March 30.

- Please keep an eye on your email for additional information about the changing of instruction in your classes from face-to-face to alternate delivery. Potential examples of alternate delivery could include:
  - Face-to-face video conferencing
  - Discussion boards
  - Video links to films
  - Readings
  - Chat
  - And other options

- If possible, you should arrange to be away from campus during this extended break, as well as when alternate delivery mode classes begin. Should the alternate delivery mode period be extended, we will provide at least five days’ notice.

- Please bring all indispensable personal items such as prescriptions with you. You should also bring your class/instructional materials as well as your laptop or tablet that you use for coursework.

- Classes that are already online will not be affected by the spring break extension and will continue as regularly scheduled.

- We recognize that some of you may be unable to return to your permanent residence and will need to stay in your residence hall. During this time, on-campus services will be available.
Some students have inquired about staying home for the rest of the semester. The first possible date that campus may resume face-to-face classes would be April 13, so please be prepared to be back on campus by this date unless notified otherwise.

The Emergency Response Team will continuously assess safety and risk and update students as appropriate. As a reminder, there are currently no confirmed cases in our region or on our campus. All of these actions are being taken out of an abundance of caution. The university has compiled additional information about COVID-19 at www.uwsuper.edu/coronavirus.

Remember to treat each other with kindness and respect and to support each other during this time of change and uncertainty. If you have questions or concerns, please contact the Dean of Students Office at dos@uwsuper.edu or 715-394-8244.

We appreciate your flexibility during this rapidly evolving situation.

-Harry
