Campus Community,

Upon reviewing the growing numbers of COVID-19 (coronavirus) cases in South Korea, the University of Wisconsin-Superior has suspended its study abroad program in Wonju, South Korea for the semester. Two students were slated to participate in this program; one will return to their home today and the other hasn’t left for South Korea yet and will remain in the United States.

This decision comes after the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) issued its recommendation to avoid all nonessential travel to South Korea.

While there are currently no confirmed cases of coronavirus in Wonju, we take our students’ safety and well-being seriously and are acting out of an abundance of caution. The UW-Superior Emergency Response Team and UW System continue to monitor this situation.

Best,

Maria
