What Students See in Learn@UWSuperior

My Home

The first thing students see after they log into Learn@UWSuperior is the My Home screen. There are four areas on the My Home screen:

- Minibar (red box) – links to My Home, select a course menu, alerts buttons, and a settings dropdown menu.
- Navigation bar (green box) – has links to system resources, ePortfolio, My Media (Kaltura), and the current date.
- News (blue box) – important information from the system administrator will appear in the News area.
- My Superior Courses (purple box) – a list of all the courses they are taking or are a teaching assistant for. Note: Updates from the courses will appear beneath the course name to show any new activities since the student was last in the course.

Course Home

After selecting a course in the My Superior Courses area, they will be brought to the Course Home screen for that offering. There are six areas on the Course Home screen:

- Course Navigation bar (red box) – links to the Course Home, Materials, Communication, Assessment, Conferencing, and My Media (Kaltura).
- News (orange box) – important information from the instructor will appear in the News area.
- Updates (green box) – any new activities since the student was last in the course.
- Calendar (lt. blue box) – any items the instructor has set a due or end date for will appear here.
Need Help? (dk. Blue box) – students who need technical or academic support can find links to the Technology Helpdesk, Educational Success Center, Jim Dan Hill Library, and Writing Center.

Course Gallery / Media Gallery (purple box) – students who publish their multimedia in the Kaltura My Media area will appear in this area. Note: when published here, everyone in the course will be able to view the multimedia file unless the instructor denies it. Most instructors want the multimedia submitted through the Dropbox area not published to the Course Gallery.

Next we will show some of the more commonly used tools like Content, Discussions, Dropbox, Quizzes, and Grades. We’ll also show what a Rubric looks like in some of those tools. Not all of the tools may be used in a course, the instructor decides what will work best in his or her course.

Content

After selecting the Materials dropdown menu and selecting Content, if the instructor uses it, students will see the Overview feature. If it’s not used, the system will take the student to the Table of Contents.

In the Table of Contents (red box), students will see modules (orange box) and topics (yellow box) that have information or assignments/activities that the students must complete. As the student goes through the modules and topics, the completion bar will advance and the modules will have a check mark next to the ones that have been finished (green boxes).

When a student selects a topic, they will see whatever information the instructor has included for that topic. The instructor may include links to other topics in the Content area, other tools within Learn@UWSuperior, or outside websites. The topic may have an embedded video or audio clip. The topic may also show a Discussions topic, Dropbox Folder, or Quiz.
Discussions

After selecting the Communication dropdown menu and selecting Discussions, the student will see any forums (red box) and topics (orange box) the instructor has created.

Once the student selects a topic, there are two views, Grid (default) and Reading.

When a student selects a topic that the instructor has made it mandatory that the student must post a message first before they are able to see other students responses a message will appear where normally other students messages will appear.

Note: Because of the way the system works, students are not able to see scores and grade feedback for Discussions posts. If a Rubric is added to the Discussions topic, students will see the ungraded version below the topic description when in Read Mode. Normally the instructor will have the scores in the Grades area for Discussions assignments.
After selecting the Assessment dropdown menu and selecting Dropbox, the student will see any Dropbox Folders the instructor has created (red box). The instructor may use categories to organize the Folders. If the instructor has added a due date to a Folder, it will appear in the last box on the right (orange box). Score, Submissions, and Feedback will appear after the submission has been completed and the instructor has assessed the work (yellow box). The student can see anything they have submitted to the Dropbox area by using the View History button (green box). They can also download to their computer any file they have submitted to the Dropbox area in case they lose the original.

When a student selects a Dropbox Folder, they will be able to read any instructions the instructor has given (red box); see the start and due date (orange box); add a file and record audio (yellow box); embed a video and add a comment on the submission in the HTML Editor (green box) before submitting the files or canceling the process (blue box).
Quizzes

After selecting the Assessment dropdown menu and selecting Quizzes, the student will see any quizzes the instructor has created (red box). If the instructor has limited access to the quiz using a date range (orange box) it will appear below the quiz name. If the instructor gives a student Special Access to a quiz, a gold key (green box) will appear next to the quiz name. The number of attempts for each quiz will be listed on the far right. Once the student takes a quiz, it will change from 0/1 to 1/1.

When a student selects one of the Quizzes, they will be able to see a description the instructor has added (red box); Quiz Details, including how much time is allowed (orange box); instructions on taking the quiz (yellow box); and the Start Quiz! button (green box).

Note: If a student leaves a quiz and there is time still left, the Start Quiz! button will change to Continue Quiz… and he or she can pick up where they left off.

A confirmation window will appear when the student clicks the Start Quiz! button. Once the student selects the OK button, they will begin the quiz.

On the Quiz screen, the student will see the Time Limit and Time Left if the instructor has enforced the time (red box); the number of questions along with the legend (orange box); and the Questions themselves (yellow box). When an answer has been selected, it will be highlighted blue (green box) and if the student hovers over another answer, it will highlight that one in gray (blue box).
When a student saves their answers (red box), the saving icon in the Questions column and on the right of the question will change to blue (orange boxes).

If a student clicks the Go to Submit Quiz button and still has unanswered questions, a warning will appear (orange box). If the instructor allows students to go back and forth between quiz pages, the student can click on the question (yellow box) and return to that page to answer it.

Once the student has finished answering all of the questions, they can click the Submit Quiz button (red box).

A confirmation window will appear giving the student an opportunity to complete the submission process or cancel and go back to the quiz (red box).

The instructor may allow the system to show the student the score right after they have submitted the quiz. Depending on how the instructor has set up the submission response, the student may also see the questions with wrong answers or right answers; all of the questions with or without their responses; or all the questions with the correct answers.

Note: If the quiz has essay questions, the instructor has to manually score them so the score may not be the full score until after that happens.
Grades

After selecting the Assessment dropdown menu and selecting Grades, the student will see their scores for any assignments the instructor has created (red box); the Final Grade if it’s been released (orange box); and an overall feedback (yellow box). The instructor may also leave feedback for individual assignments (green box).

Note: Instructors may not release the Final Grade until the end of the semester.
